SARDINIA & THE DOLOMITES

90,000 acres of mountainous terrain, the Italian Dolomites are a unique corner of the Alps with distinctive geology and a fascinating blend of cultures.

A close-up photograph of a hand pouring a thick, white cream from a spoon onto a plate of food. The plate is part of a row of similar plates on a rustic wooden table. In the background, another hand is visible holding a glass of a light-colored beverage. The scene is set outdoors with a blurred green background, suggesting a natural setting. The lighting is soft and natural, highlighting the textures of the food and the wood.

A wide-angle photograph capturing two individuals from behind, standing on a snow-covered mountain ridge. They are dressed in winter attire, including jackets and pants. The person on the left wears a bright green jacket and dark pants, while the person on the right wears a light blue jacket and dark pants. They are positioned in the lower center of the frame, looking out over a vast, hazy landscape. The sky is a uniform, soft orange, suggesting a sunrise or sunset. In the distance, the silhouettes of mountain ranges are visible, with a prominent, sharp peak on the right side. The overall mood is serene and expansive.
